

TRAINING INFORMATION

Updated 29 January 2010

This Training Information document summarises the accredited training that is being offered in 2010. All registered training organisations accredited to offer the irrigation qualifications were contacted and the information received is summarised below. Those who have not responded are included at the bottom of each listing. Prospective students will need to contact them for details of training they are offering in 2010.

This document will be updated throughout the year as new information is supplied by training providers.

Face-to-face delivery is course work usually conducted in a classroom situation.

Distance learning is done by correspondence, internet, phone – any method that is not classroom based.

On-the-job training is training conducted in the workplace.

RPL is recognition of prior learning – both formal and informal learning (no matter how it was acquired) is assessed toward a qualification.

Trainees are government sponsored learners that provide incentive payments for employers.

Learning guides for the irrigation qualifications are available from the IAL.

The training is listed under the qualification level. For more information on the qualifications or information on the items shown in red please refer back to our website
